The Best Kebab & Curry in Boat Quay, All in One Place

If you're craving both smoky, tandoor-grilled kebabs and rich, spiced curries, Shahi Maharaja offers some of the best kebab and curry in Boat Quay under one roof. Located at 47 Boat Quay, this North Indian restaurant has built a reputation for doing both categories exceptionally well, which isn't always easy to find.

Let's start with the kebabs. Shahi Maharaja's tandoor menu features a range of options, including Hara Bhara Kebab, made with a blend of vegetables and spices, and Malai Chicken Tikka, marinated in a creamy, spiced yoghurt mixture before being grilled to smoky perfection. For those who prefer something heartier, the Non-Veg Kebab Platter offers a mixed selection featuring Arabian and Iranian-style kebabs, served alongside fries, grilled tomatoes, and onions, an ideal option for sharing.

The Tandoori Lamb Chops also deserve a mention here. Seasoned with a traditional blend of Indian spices and grilled in the clay oven, they offer a smoky, tender bite that pairs beautifully with mint chutney and a squeeze of lime. It's a dish that regularly gets praised by customers looking for a satisfying, protein-heavy starter or main.

On the curry side, Shahi Maharaja doesn't disappoint either. The Butter Chicken remains a top seller, offering that classic creamy, tomato-based richness that's become synonymous with North Indian cuisine internationally. For those wanting something spicier, the Mutton Rogan Josh brings a Kashmiri-style depth of flavour, slow-cooked until the meat is tender and infused with warming spices.

Vegetarian curry options are just as strong. Paneer Butter Masala offers the same rich, creamy base as its chicken counterpart, while Malai Kofta brings soft, fried dumplings into a velvety tomato gravy. Dal Makhani, tempered with dried red chillies and spices, rounds out the curry offerings with a comforting, slow-cooked lentil dish that pairs perfectly with naan or rice.

What makes Shahi Maharaja stand out for the best kebab and curry in Boat Quay is the consistency across both categories. It's common for restaurants to specialise in one or the other, but here, both the tandoor and curry sections receive equal care and attention, giving guests the freedom to build a meal that includes a bit of everything.

The setting adds to the experience too. With interiors inspired by Indian royal culture and a location right along the Singapore River, dining here feels special, whether you're ordering a quick kebab platter or settling in for a full curry-based meal. The restaurant's Happy Hours also make it an appealing spot for groups looking to sample a variety of dishes without overspending.

Service is consistently praised as well, with staff known for helping guests choose the right combination of kebabs and curries based on their spice tolerance and appetite. This kind of guidance makes it easy to build a well-rounded meal, especially for first-time visitors unfamiliar with the full menu.

If you're after the best kebab and curry in Boat Quay, Shahi Maharaja offers a menu that excels at both, backed by a beautiful riverside setting and attentive service. It's a destination worth visiting for anyone who wants variety without compromising on quality.
